

For Immediate Release

Contact Sharon Smith for Prevail, Inc; 317-506-7982 or ssmith@maverickpublicrelations.com

Prevail, Inc. launches improved web site

Noblesville, IN—January 19, 2010 — Prevail, Inc., a victim awareness and awareness program serving Hamilton County, announces that it will launch its new web site on Monday, January 25.

The site, www.prevailinc.com, will have information available in both English and Spanish and allows visitors to interact with staff members using social media tools such as Twitter and Facebook, Visitors will also be able to register to receive timely information relating to the organization's programs, services and events via e-alerts and newsletters.

According to Sue Hacker-Nelson, director of development, the site will be much easier to navigate for new and returning users. Visitors will also have an opportunity to make donations to Prevail using PayPal, an e-commerce tool allowing payments to be made through the Internet.

Prevail is a dedicated and recognized model in the advocacy for crime victims by promoting community awareness through educational prevention programs and collaborative community partnerships. Programs and services are offered without discrimination against age, race, gender, creed, ethnicity, color, marital status, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, or disability and are confidential, personalized and free-of-charge.

For more information on Prevail and its services, log on to www.prevailinc.com or contact Loretta Moore at (317) 773-6942 or Loretta@prevailinc.com. Prevail is located at 1100 South 9th Street, Suite 100, Noblesville, IN 46060.

#